

New Jersey's Consumer Protection Laws should not be weakened. This law has made such a positive on family quality life that weakening it would prove to be a great mistake. When something is not broken why try to fix it. Of course, the people that are inconvenienced by this law, the telemarketers, will cry foul, but let them. The people of our state do NOT wish any changes to this law